

MrMcclaughry

5 hours ago (edited)

Regarding Dana Whitmire @rottingjewels November 11, 2025

From Virginia, using my husband's youtube today to make this post - it is set to go out of view after an undisclosed amount of time.

Reference Dana's response to my November 9, 2025 post -

<https://www.youtube.com/post/Ugkxq1il...>

I have questions.

Dana wrote: "I am not anyone's property - I am my own person.

I do not belong to anyone.

I don't care if diatribes of Scientology fan-fiction are written about me until my mortal coil leaves this earth - I am not someone to claim.

I don't care if I'm threatened as an attempt to coerce me to bend the knee - I belong to no one."

And yet, AFAIK as to Christianity, she, the spirit, and her form were created by God, making her, essentially, GODS PROPERTY.

How does Dana reconcile her statement of "I am not

How does Dana reconcile her statement of "I am not anyone's property" then?

Again, AFAIK most bibles are pretty clear that the soul itself was "created" by God, albeit with free will, but still, a CREATION is automatically "property" of its creator, and Creator rights cannot be "given" away. It doesn't work that way in reality, unlike the illusion of it so often insisted on in this society.

Has Dana invented some new form of Christianity where Gods NOT "her" creator? Who is "her" creator then?

Evolution? Cosmic soup?

So... how does she know that "this" PLANET is not her HOME?

Begs the question - Where did she come from?

Heaven? What planet is that?

References: 1 Scientology, Process Church, Government Connections - @rottingjewels, Zerilath Eternal, streamed November 5 2025 <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ha5-g...>

Dana: 4:36 "But this is again these people's idea of what heaven is. And it is to bring it here on this earth. Earth is not home. Earth ain't home. This ain't it. Okay? So, it's they're preaching a false gospel"

References: 2 Make America Clear Again: The United

References: 1 Scientology, Process Church, Government Connections - @rottingjewels, Zerilath Eternal, streamed November 5 2025 <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ha5-g...>

Dana: 4:36 "But this is again these people's idea of what heaven is. And it is to bring it here on this earth. Earth is not home. Earth ain't home. This ain't it. Okay? So, it's they're preaching a false gospel"

References: 2 Make America Clear Again: The United States of Scientology, streamed live by Rotting Jewels (Dana) October 14 2025 <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GbTUf...>

Dana: 2:35:52 "You get what I'm saying about false false gospel, false belief system, right? Because my belief is that earth is not my home. Thank God. Praise God. Earth is not my home. And this meat sack floating on a rock through space, you know, it's temporary. That's just my belief."

A few more questions -

Again, AFAIK GOD is supposed to have created this floating "rock through space" and the "meat sack" she's using.

Why is Dana so denigrating of and cranky about GODS creations?

Isn't that the kind of attitude towards GODS creations what satanism/the devil has been represented here as?

Why is Dana so denigrating of and cranky about GODS creations?

Isn't that the kind of attitude towards GODS creations what satanism/the devil has been represented here as?

Well...isn't it?

Not to mention, per a source, the slavemasters and their special "chosen" are trying to build a super-ship to ESCAPE THE PLANET and GO HOME.

They won't escape, but why does it seem like Dana is lining up with that very same mentality towards Earth?

That's just plain weird.

---

Please note: I personally don't subscribe to ANY belief that someone else created who I am, AS INDEPENDENT FROM ANY FORM.

I did not get that perspective from "Scientology", as much as others try to falsely claim that. I have never NOT had that perspective, before, during, or after "Scientology".

